TARGET TIMELINE

Q3 – Q4 2026 Rollout & Expansion

On-demand beauty and wellness marketplaces (such as Urban Company, Fresha, Treatwell, Nykaa, and Zomato) experience a structural evolution where booking commissions represent only the baseline revenue stream. High-margin profitability is consistently unlocked by deploying Native In-App Advertising, Sponsored Visibility Listings, and Direct-to-Consumer (D2C) Beauty Brand Partnerships.

Strategic Business Advantage: In modern multi-vendor beauty apps, 25% to 38% of net operating income can be generated via advertising without raising commission fees on salon partners. This keeps salon partner take-rates competitive while monetizing platform traffic.

3.2x HIGHER CTR ON IN-APP ADS	28–35% PROJECTED REVENUE SHARE	₹350–600 AVG. CPM FOR LUXURY BRANDS	4.8% AVG. UPSELL CONVERSION

Three Core Monetization Vectors

1. FMCG Brand Ads HIGH CPM Global and national cosmetic brands (L'Oréal, O3+, Dyson, Forest Essentials, Lakmé) sponsor carousel takeovers, product sample launches, and custom treatment kits.	2. Salon Partner Boosts SELF-SERVE Local salon partners pay a daily or weekly boost fee (e.g. ₹499/week) to appear at the top of local geo-fenced search queries and trending feeds to fill empty chairs.	3. Service Upsell Kits IN-FUNNEL During the booking flow, customers select premium brand products (e.g. Organic Papaya / Revitalift). Brands pay placement fees plus revenue share on product selections.

High-Intent Consumer Context

Unlike general social media ads (Instagram, Facebook), customers on the InstaaTrim app have immediate booking intent and disposable spending readiness. An advertisement for an anti-aging facial or a keratin hair treatment is displayed at the exact moment the client is choosing a salon service, resulting in conversion rates 4x higher than standard display banners.
